The Hagler Institute brings world-class scholars—Hagler Fellows—to take residence at Texas A&M University for up to twelve months. These scholars collaborate with A&M faculty and graduate students to solve some of the world’s toughest problems. Their presentations inspire undergraduate students and help demonstrate what is possible to achieve.

The Hagler Institute is a mechanism for attracting world-class talent to the University and is driven by nominations of national academy and Nobel-prize caliber researchers that align with existing strengths and ambitions of the University. Each year the Hagler Institute invites a number of nationally and internationally prominent Fellows to pursue advanced study at the Hagler Institute in collaboration with faculty and student scholars at Texas A&M. The goal is to provide a stellar environment for research and scholarship with the Hagler Fellows having freedom to pursue their own research interests, as well as collaborate in disciplinary and multidisciplinary research. Each Fellow affiliates with one or more of the doctoral degree granting academic departments housed in 16 colleges and schools. Additional resources provide Texas A&M fellowships for graduate students, as well as fund visiting graduate students and post-doctoral researchers affiliated with the Fellows.

Through the recruitment of its Fellows, The Hagler Institute for Advanced Study raises the profile of Texas A&M—nationally and worldwide—and plays a significant role in retaining outstanding faculty-researchers and recruiting quality faculty members and students.

Now a permanent feature at Texas A&M, the Hagler Institute is a key component of the University’s strategy to advance its academic evolution and to emerge as one of the ten universities that are generally regarded as the best in the United States. The Institute strengthens A&M’s graduate programs and enriches the undergraduate academic environment.
